20 Years of War

A costs of war research series

“The actual number of post-9/11 veterans who have died by suicide is likely higher than the V.A. records indicate. The difficulty in coming to the actual number stems from the V.A. not differentiating veteran suicides by their time of service, and they have inconsistently measured suicides since 2001 and have yet to report the actual number of post-9/11 veterans who have committed suicide.”

During our military conflicts since 9/11, approximately 7,057 service members have lost their lives in combat operations.

Conservatively, we have experienced 30,177 suicides by post 9/11 service members and veterans.
