

Skills that matter

THE PRAXIS® CORE TEST is the only national assessment of reading, writing and mathematics skills that is designed specifically for teacher candidates.

STRENGTHENING THE TEACHER PIPELINE

When thinking about the reading, writing, and mathematics skills that prospective teachers need, we must consider how we can maximize access and support for all those who enter the teacher pipeline.

By collaborating with Study.com, Praxis is addressing these needs with its free Praxis Core Prep. This accessible and personalized study resource emphasizes the content skills teacher candidates must have to succeed in the educator preparation process, no matter the subject or grade level.

Research has shown a correlation between a teacher candidate's reading, writing, and mathematics skills as well as their later success on state-required licensure tests.*
