TYLER TANNER'S STORY

“A 7-month investment in yourself can turn into a lifetime of opportunities!”

- In January Tyler was in an auto mechanic job earning commission
- He joined Owensboro CTC's "Tech X" program and is on track to graduate in August
- Tech X initiative is a multi-craft technologist program offering hands-on training in a real-world, industrial environment
 - Develops those technical and analytical thinking skills that contribute to work flow and production output
 - Skills needed in most entry level manufacturing positions today
 - Two tracks – day and evening - that provide flexibility for a variety of non-traditional, time-challenged adults
- Two months into the Tech X program he got a job as a welder with Pittsburg Tank & Tower Group
- The WRKS allowed Tyler to take advantage of this opportunity
- He is now on a career path making better, more consistent pay that allows him to provide for his family

THE WRKS AT WORK

KCTCS is working on filling the pipeline but Business & Industry need to be involved as well.

In the last year, more than 2,600 KCTCS graduates were prepared to go pro in high paying, in-demand careers in advanced manufacturing with 400+ employers.

The Kentucky Manufacturing Going Pro Signing Day is a partnership between the Kentucky Association of Manufacturers (KAM) and KCTCS to highlight KCTCS graduates and their employers.

The WRKS promotes access to KCTCS...the success of graduates getting hired will lead to more students taking advantage of the WKRS because a career equals success.
