Research Report No. 226

Legislative Research Commission
Frankfort, Kentucky
The Kentucky Legislative Research Commission is a sixteen member committee, comprised of the majority and minority leadership of the Kentucky Senate and House of Representatives. Under Chapter 7 of the Kentucky Revised Statutes, the Commission constitutes the administrative office for the Kentucky General Assembly. Its director serves as chief administrative officer of the Legislature when it is not in session.

The Commission and its staff, by law and by practice, perform numerous fact-finding and service functions for members of the General Assembly. The Commission provides professional, clerical and other employees required by legislators when the General Assembly is in session and during the interim period between sessions. These employees, in turn, assist committees and individual members in preparing legislation. Other services include conducting studies and investigations, organizing and staffing committee meetings and public hearings, maintaining official legislative records and other reference materials, furnishing information about the Legislature to the public, compiling and publishing administrative regulations, administering a legislative intern program, conducting a pre-session orientation conference for legislators, and publishing a daily index of legislative activity during sessions of the General Assembly.

The Commission is also responsible for statute revision, publication and distribution of the Acts and Journals following sessions of the General Assembly and for maintaining furnishings, equipment and supplies for the Legislature.

The Commission functions as Kentucky’s Commission on Interstate Cooperation in carrying out the program of the Council of State Governments as it relates to Kentucky.
Thirteen of the Special Commission on Constitutional Review’s recommendations, some in a slightly modified form, have been adopted by the people and made part of the Constitution. Those adopted recommendations include permitting the operation of a state lottery, joint election of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, devising a method by which a determination of a Governor’s disability may be made, allowing the Governor to retain the powers of the office while absent from the state, succession for statewide officers, the abolition of an elected Superintendent of Public Instruction, conducting elections only in even-numbered years except for statewide officers, clarifying and broadening property tax exemptions for institutions of religion, modifying provisions regarding the structure and functions of local government including the provision of constitutional "home rule," a revision of the city classification process, and liberalized financing and debt capacity limitations, deleting the requirement for racially-segregated public schools, and deleting the authority for the levy of a poll tax.

Listed below are the adopted recommendations. Where noted by an asterisk, the submitted amendments were modified from the original recommendation or contain only a part of a recommendation.

* Recommendation No. 1: The adopted amendment required the joint election of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, provided for the assignment of duties to the Lieutenant Governor by the Governor or by statute, replaced the Secretary of State with the Attorney General as third in the line of gubernatorial succession. The recommendation also called for abolishing the office of Secretary of State and merging it with the office of Lieutenant Governor who would still preside over the Senate and be first in the line of succession and also sought to replace the Secretary of State with the House Speaker in the line of gubernatorial succession.

Recommendation No. 4: Determination of the Governor's disability.

Recommendation No. 5: Governor's retention of powers when absent from the state.
Recommendation No. 7: Succession for statewide officers.

* Recommendation No. 16: The recommendation called for the repeal of Section 187. The adopted amendment deleted the requirement that racially-segregated schools be maintained and left the remainder of Section 187's language intact.

* Recommendation No. 23: Appointed rather than elected Superintendent of Public Instruction. The recommendation was for an amendment to create an elected State Board of Education which would appoint a Superintendent. The adopted amendment eliminated the elected Superintendent and the appointed State Board was created by KERA.

* Recommendation No. 29: The recommendation called for clarification of the provisions allowing exemptions from property taxes but was not specific as to how to do that. The adopted amendment broadened and clarified the property tax exemption for institutions of religion.

* Recommendation No. 30: The recommendation related to a local government's assuming more debt in a fiscal year than could be paid off with incoming revenues during that same fiscal year. To do this, the local government had to get the approval of 2/3 of its voters. The recommendation was to reduce the approval vote requirement to 1/2, rather than 2/3. The adopted amendment deleted the vote requirement altogether.

* Recommendation No. 32: The recommendation called for the repeal of Section 180. The adopted amendment deleted language authorizing the levy of a poll tax and left the remainder of Section 180's language intact.

* Recommendation No. 43: The recommendation called for the elimination of elections in odd-numbered years. The adopted amendment eliminated odd-year elections except for elections for statewide officers.

   Recommendation No. 47: Elimination of the prohibition against lotteries and gift enterprises.

* Recommendation No. 64: The recommendation was to delete the city classification system, authorize the General Assembly to prescribe the structure and function of municipal government, define what constitutes a city, and require the General Assembly to provide alternative forms of government by merger or reorganization by local referendum. The adopted amendment retained the city classification system but required the General Assembly to create one based on more than just population. It did authorize the General Assembly to prescribe the structure and functions of city government, but it also authorized, rather than required, the General Assembly to provide for merger and reorganization of city government but without the requirement for a local referendum. There are already statutes on the books which provide for merger of cities and a local referendum is required, so the grant of authority provides a constitutional basis for those statutes.

* Recommendation No. 72: The recommendation was for an amendment which provided "home rule" for all local governments. While there is statutory "home rule" for cities and counties, the adopted amendment only granted it constitutionally to cities.

FOREWORD

The Constitution of Kentucky is the principal law of the Commonwealth. Its authority is superseded only by the Constitution of the United States and federal law. Kentucky’s present Constitution is the fourth to be used by the state. It was written in 1890-91 and became effective in 1892. Previous Constitutions of the Commonwealth were drafted in 1792, 1799, and 1849.

The Constitution of 1891 has been in effect for a much longer period of time than any of its predecessors. Since its implementation, Kentucky, and indeed the world, has seen drastic alteration and development in the areas of technology, commerce and finance, governmental operation and management, and general social structure. Ironically, our Constitution was written during a period of distrust of such change. The resultant lengthy and specifically worded document has often been criticized as lacking the flexibility to adapt to the changing times.

Sixty attempts to amend the Constitution have been made since its implementation in 1892, but only 27 have been successful, the most recent in 1986. In 1967, proposed major revisions in the present Constitution were submitted to the voters, the result of efforts by a special Constitution Revision Assembly created by the legislature. The vote was overwhelmingly against the proposed changes. Four unsuccessful attempts also have been made, over the years, to call a constitutional convention to draft a new Constitution. The most recent such failure occurred in November 1977.

In January of 1987 the Legislative Research Commission created the Special Commission on Constitutional Review. The LRC was mindful that recent past attempts at wholesale constitutional overhaul have lacked popular support. The Special Commission was therefore charged with conducting a section by section review of the Constitution. Suggestions made for improvement of these sections might then serve as a guidepost for constitutional amendments offered for voter approval over a number of years.

This report is the result of the initial review of the Special Commission on Constitutional Review. It contains seventy-seven individual suggestions for alteration of our constitutional document. The Special Commission on Constitutional Review is officially constituted as a body until May of 1988, at which time the LRC will evaluate its effectiveness.

Dear Speaker Blandford, President Pro Tem Rose, and Members,
Legislative Research Commission:

Transmitted herewith is the final report of your Commission on Constitutional Review. As you requested, we have reviewed Kentucky’s Constitution, section by section. The report presents our recommendations for amendments, deletions, and additions.

In my opinion, the report contains the best suggestions the Commission could compile in the brief time we had in which to complete our work. Given an unlimited time frame, the Commission would have preferred to formulate specifically worded ballot-ready amendments which contain combinations of related proposals contained in this report. The report should be valuable, however, as a “menu” from which the General Assembly may select ideas for constitutional reform.

In order to help you understand how we reached our results and to help support the validity and value of the recommendations, I will explain some of the methods we used and how we organized our work. Our members represented many backgrounds and all areas of Kentucky. Business, labor, city and county government, the media, academia, the legislative, executive and judicial branches of state government all were represented on the Commission. We divided sections of the Constitution into six subject groups and assigned them for the review of six subcommittees of the Commission. Subcommittee jurisdictions were: state government, local government, revenue and taxation, education and human services, private corporations and railroads, and bill of rights and elections.

Each subcommittee had a chairman and vice chairman. These individuals were also members of an Executive/Editorial Committee which served several purposes. This committee helped to coordinate the work of all committees, to identify and resolve conflicts, and to plan the final package. We have held three meetings of the entire commission, three meetings of the Executive Committee, and each subcommittee conducted several meetings or hearings. All meetings have been open to the public, and groups and individuals were invited to attend and to testify about appropriate concerns. Several witnesses did testify at the subcommittee hearings.

This final report of the Commission is divided into chapters which correspond to jurisdictions of the six subcommittees. The recommendations for constitutional amendment proposed by each subcommittee are preceded by a letter of introduction from the chairman of that subcommittee. These statements explain in some detail the work and recommendations of each committee. In some of these statements, you will also find suggestions concerning possible ways for grouping multi-section proposed amendments.

With a limit of four amendment proposals per session of the General Assembly and 263 sections in the Constitution (many being in need of some amending), the idea of clustering homogeneous sections for amendment (such as the 1975 judicial article which amended 33 sections) could be very important. However, many factors must be considered in deciding when and how to put what with what. This will take the best political wisdom the General Assembly can muster after conducting its own hearings.

Each of the 263 sections of the Constitution has been considered. We have few unanimous recommendations. It was therefore felt important that this report reflect levels of support within the Commission for each amendment proposal. Toward this end, on July 13, 1987, each member of the Commission was mailed a survey ballot. The survey ballot contained copies of each of the 77 proposals for constitutional amendment offered by the six subcommittees. Members of the full Commission were given the opportunity to mark on the ballot support, opposition, or lack of an opinion concerning individual proposals. Some members did not return their questionnaire or vote on any of the proposals. Those proposed amendments receiving over fifty percent support as indicated from responses received appear in this report. Each proposal is accompanied by a notation of the percentage rate by which it was approved.

We have no way of knowing who voted for or against the individual proposals. I personally disapproved of several proposals, but in keeping with the general idea of the report, I will not attempt to influence the success or failure of any of the suggestions by stating how I personally voted on any item. Nevertheless, any of the Commission members may, and should, be available to assist the General Assembly when and if it conducts hearings on any proposed constitutional amendments. At that time, you may learn how individual members feel about specific proposals.

Commission members recognized that of the many proposals to be offered, some would be of more immediate importance to the Commonwealth than others. Although some sections, such as the requirement for segregated schools, are now only unenforceable embarrassments, they nevertheless need to be removed or changed. On the other hand, one of our proposals of immediate concern would allow the governor to continue to be governor when he or she leaves the state. After all, we do have telephones now. This subject has been in the news recently concerning a possible call by the Lieutenant Governor for a special session of the General Assembly to consider the problem of workers’ compensation.

Respondents to the survey ballot were therefore asked to assign a priority ranking from one to five inclusive to each proposed amendment. A priority ranking of “1” denoted a proposal considered crucial in affecting the future of Kentucky, including its ability to compete with other states. A priority ranking of “5” denoted a proposal which, although desirable, is not urgent nor does it affect the future of Kentucky. Priority ratings were then averaged among responses received in order to generate a priority index for each proposal. This priority index accompanies each amendment proposal in this report.

I was a bit surprised that no proposals in our report pertained to the bonding abilities of the Commonwealth or to its debt limit. As pointed out in the Chairman’s introduction to the recommendations of the Revenue and Taxation Subcommittee, however, the experts from the Revenue Cabinet wanted to leave that subject alone. This and other subjects may be vital to Kentucky’s economic health and its ability to compete with sister states and foreign countries in the future. Therefore, our decision to make no recommendation on this, or any other subject, should in no way influence the Legislative Research Commission or the General Assembly not to cause further study of a particular issue.

Our work has made each of us aware of several needs for improvement in our Constitution, which was adopted during a time vastly different from today. The Kentucky Constitution is comparable to a restrictive set of statutes, unlike the United States Constitution, which basically sets forth principles and guidelines for an expanding future. While Kentucky’s Constitution is certainly not all bad, it is nevertheless due for some repair.

Our courts have been able to provide some spectacular decisions to relieve the problems of our restrictive Constitution, as evidenced by the “rubber dollar” theory and the recent Toyota case, but the people have not always been able to depend upon judicial gymnastics to correct some serious problems. When serious problems do exist with our Constitution, the people need to be open for amendments.

Hopefully, the citizens of Kentucky will begin to realize that our State Constitution is not an untouchable “Ark of the Covenant.” To say that Kentucky’s Constitution is “untouchable” gives too much credit to the wisdom of the drafters living in the 1890’s and unreasonably binds Kentuckians living in the 1980’s.

I want to express my thanks to the Commission members who devoted so much time, effort, and talent to our task. I especially want to compliment staff of the Legislative Research Commission for their tireless work and expertise. Robert Sherman and David Morris served as General Counsel to the Commission. Subcommittees were staffed by Janie Jones, Linda Wood, Joyce Honaker, Jamie Franklin, Dee Baugh, Gilmore Dutton, Norman Lawson, Anita Taylor, Geri Grigsby, and Rhonda Franklin. Rita Ratliff served as Commission secretary, compiled figures, and typed this report. The job could not have been done without their help.

It has been my pleasure and privilege to chair the Commission. I only hope our efforts will be of some benefit to you and to Kentucky. We stand ready to assist in continuing the effort to improve our Constitution. If we can be of further assistance, please let us know.

Sincerely,

J. William Howerton

Dear Speaker Blandford, President Pro Tem Rose, and Members,
Legislative Research Commission:

The Subcommittee on State Government held five meetings between March 20 and July 6, 1987, to review issues relating to 96 sections of the 1891 Constitution. The Subcommittee considered prior proposals to revise the Constitution, members’ suggestions, and data on the practices of other states. Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens presented proposals concerning the selection of justices and judges. In its discussion of the office and duties of the Lieutenant Governor, the Subcommittee was assisted by Ms. Gail Manning, Administrative Assistant to the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors.

The Subcommittee has proposed 12 constitutional amendments relating to Kentucky’s state governmental structure, procedures, and powers. The Subcommittee’s philosophy in approaching its task was primarily to recommend what it felt was best for the Commonwealth rather than to base its recommendations on political acceptability. We felt that decisions about the acceptability of the constitutional revision proposals are the prerogative of the General Assembly and the electorate.

The following background information on several of the Subcommittee’s recommendations is offered to assist the Legislative Research Commission, the General Assembly, and the public in evaluating our proposals.

President Pro Tem Rose
Members, Legislative Research Commission

The Subcommittee felt that team nomination and election of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor would enhance the philosophical and political compatibility of the two officers and thereby contribute to a more meaningful executive branch role for the Lieutenant Governor.

The Subcommittee’s recommendation that all justices and judges be appointed by the Governor from lists of persons submitted by nominating commissions and, thereafter, run for retention is based upon concerns about nationwide trends toward excessive spending in judicial elections and negative effects of political pressures on both appellate and trial judges. While the “Missouri plan” for judicial selection generally applies only to higher courts in Missouri, the Subcommittee felt that in many respects, trial judges experience even greater political pressures than appellate court judges.

The proposed amendment to Constitution Section 54, relating to limitations on recovery in the event of injury or death, generated dissent. The majority of the members agreed that the General Assembly should be permitted to limit recovery for nonpecuniary damages. While some members felt that the liability problem is not as serious in Kentucky as in some other states, they felt it probably will be in the future. Senator David LeMaster felt that Section 54 and related Sections 14 and 241 should be left intact.

In recommending that the General Assembly be permitted to specify the forum and conditions for suing both the state and political subdivisions, the Subcommittee intends that the General Assembly be allowed to structure some limits on suits against cities. The Subcommittee does not feel that cities should thereby be granted complete immunity from suit.

The recommendation that the General Assembly be specifically empowered to employ a legislative auditor is based upon concern that the separation of powers clause of the Constitution might be interpreted to preclude oversight auditing of the other branches of government by the legislative branch.

In addition to the issues addressed by proposed amendments, the Subcommittee considered several areas in which it decided to propose no changes. It was the consensus of the Subcommittee to propose no amendments concerning legislative sessions, legislators’ terms of office and interim legislative powers. With respect to Constitution Section 116, relating to judicial rule-making, the Subcommittee discussed whether there is a need to distinguish between matters that are procedural, and hence within the Court’s powers, and those that are substantive, and hence within the General Assembly's power. The Subcommittee concluded that such an amendment would be extremely difficult to draft and that more experience under the new judicial system is needed.

Respectfully submitted,

Joseph W. Prather, Chairman
Subcommittee on State Government
Commission on Constitutional Review

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Abolish the office of Secretary of State and consolidate that office with the office of Lieutenant Governor, who would continue to preside over the Senate, be first in the line of succession and could have additional duties assigned by the Governor or by statute. The Speaker of the House of Representatives would replace the Secretary of State as third in the line of gubernatorial succession. The Governor and Lieutenant Governor should be slated as a team prior to the primary election. Amend sections 70, 82, 87, 88, 91, 93, 95, 171, 190, 256, 257, 258 and 263 to conform.

AMENDMENT PROPOSAL NUMBER 4

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Adopt the following constitutional provision to define the manner in which gubernatorial disability is to be determined:

Upon certification by the Attorney General and the Auditor of Public Accounts that the Governor is disabled, those officers would petition the Speaker of the House and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate to convene the General Assembly within 72 hours to vote on the question of disability.

Upon concurrence of three-fifths (3/5) of the elected membership in each chamber of the General Assembly, meeting in joint session but voting separately, the Governor would be declared disabled and the Lieutenant Governor would become Acting Governor. If the Lieutenant Governor becomes Acting Governor, he would retain the duties of the office of Lieutenant Governor. The office of Lieutenant Governor would remain vacant during his tenure as Acting Governor.

The question as to whether disability has terminated would be decided by the Supreme Court of Kentucky. If a justice of the Supreme Court should disqualify himself from consideration of the matter due to a conflict of interest (e.g., having been appointed to fill a vacancy on the Court by the Governor), a provision similar to language contained in 1984 HB 133, Section 1(4), page 2, line 16, should be followed. That bill provided that:

If as many as two justices of the Supreme Court decline or are unable to sit on the trial of any cause under this section, the Chief Justice shall appoint a sufficient number of judges having the qualifications of justices to constitute a full court for the trial of the cause.

House Speaker Donald J. Blandford

Members, Legislative Research Commission

Dear Speaker Blandford, President Pro Tem Rose, and Members, Legislative Research Commission:

The Subcommittee on Education and Human Services was charged with examining Sections 155, 183 through 189, 243, 244, 244A, and 252 through 254 of the Kentucky Constitution. The Subcommittee held two formal meetings, and spent a great deal of time outside of meetings individually reviewing each section and each recommendation.

The Subcommittee was fortunate to have a noted historian and expert on the Constitution as a member. In addition to examining the Kentucky Constitution, Dr. Tom Clark greatly assisted the Subcommittee by reviewing and comparing the education sections of most other state constitutions with that of Kentucky.

Of the fourteen sections assigned for review, the Subcommittee recommends that four sections not be changed, that five sections be amended, that five sections be repealed, and that one new section be added. The sections recommended for repeal are either totally obsolete or were included in one of the amended sections.

Six of the sections are directly related to the Department of Corrections and to the Cabinet for Human Resources. Representatives of both agencies appeared before the Subcommittee to discuss those sections and to offer suggestions for changes.

Of the eleven amendments proposed by the Subcommittee, two appear to be more urgent than the other nine. These two are the recommended new section and Section 183. The new section requires that the Superintendent of Public Instruction be appointed and represents a compromise between what has been previously proposed but rejected and what has been previously recommended but not placed on the ballot.
Much opposition in the past has related to how the State Board of Education is selected. Many people feel that if the Governor appoints the board, which, in turn, appoints the superintendent, the Governor would have complete control of education. Others feel that if the board is elected, the system would be even more political than it now is. The proposed amendment is somewhat of a midpoint between the two extremes. Over half the thirteen members would be elected by the people and no one governor could appoint more than four members.

The second area mentioned earlier, Section 183, attempts to provide a more specific description of the State’s responsibility in providing a system of public schools for all citizens of Kentucky. The existing language has been in dispute for some time. In fact, at this writing, litigation concerning the exact meaning of Section 183 is going on.

The remaining proposed amendments dealing with education, Sections 184 through 189, can be combined into one amendment.

Respectfully submitted,

Al Smith
Chairman
Subcommittee on Education and Human Services

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE
SUBCOMMITTEE ON REVENUE AND TAXATION

Senator John A. Rose, Senate President Pro Tem
Representative Donald J. Blandford, House Speaker
Chairmen, Legislative Research Commission

Frankfort, Kentucky 40601

Dear Co-chairmen:

This letter constitutes transmittal of the recommendations from the Subcommittee on Revenue and Taxation of the Commission on Constitutional Review. By way of background, the Subcommittee began its work on March 11 and convened meetings thereafter on April 1, April 8, April 29, May 13, June 9 and July 8, all held in Frankfort with good Subcommittee attendance. All interested parties, both within government and the private sector, were invited to attend the meetings which were open to the public.

Major issues of testimony, analysis and discussion by the Subcommittee included:

- state and local bonded indebtedness;
- local government taxation options;
- effective administration of the Revenue, Finance and Administration and Commerce Cabinets as it relates to the sections under review;
- effective oversight and decision-making by the legislature and the executive in administration of the state budget in times of revenue shortfall;
- effective competition in economic development by the state in terms of tax abatement by local governments;
- consistency in exemption of property from taxation;
• potential conflicts regarding Sections 3, 4, 50, 51, 59, 60, 171, 177 and 179 and financial incentive packages offered by the state similar to that between the state and the Toyota Motor Corp.; and

• repeal of obsolete sections.

The recommendations of the Subcommittee, following debate and discussion of these issues, follow this letter. However, the Subcommittee also recommends that the appropriate legislative committee study further the issues and constitutional sections relating to the areas of:

• consistency and greater stringency in property tax exemption (170, 171, 172 and 174); and

• financial incentives offered by the state in economic development pursuits and the entire area of the state’s bonding authority and capacity (3, 49, 50, 51, 59, 60, 171, 177 and 179).

In light of recent court decisions in these two areas, the Subcommittee refrained from specific recommendations on these potentially critical sections but recognizes that prompt legislative attention appears to be needed.

From the various hearings that were had by this Subcommittee, the number one priority seemed to be amending Section 181 of the Constitution to allow greater flexibility in the levying of taxes by local governments. This was especially true considering the recent loss of federal revenue sharing funds by local governments.

Our second priority was the creation of an Emergency Budget Board composed of representatives of the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Branches that would operate in times of specified levels of revenue shortfalls such as we have had the last several years. It was the feeling of the Subcommittee that such a board could save the taxpayers money by alleviating the need for a special session in many instances and could operate on short notice with input from all three branches of government.

The other proposals of the Subcommittee on Revenue and Taxation can be found in the survey ballot. Each proposal has been given a ranking according to the Subcommittee’s feeling of importance.

One matter which was not addressed by the Subcommittee is the question of changing the Constitution insofar as the issuance of bonds or debt limits is concerned. The Subcommittee, on several occasions, discussed the question of indebtedness and the issuance of bonds both “revenue” and “general obligation” by the Commonwealth. At no time did
From the Executive Branch, Office for Investment and Debt Management or Office of Local Government ever request any change in the present provisions of the debt limitation or the authorization for issuance of bonds. To the contrary, the representatives of the Executive Branch informed this Subcommittee that Kentucky's bonding procedure was well recognized by the bonding community and any change could be detrimental to the state. No request was made of this Subcommittee to change the authorization of the state in the issuance of bonds even though the Toyota Motor Corp. incentive case was being litigated. No one on this Subcommittee nor any of its staff have been contacted by anyone within the Executive Branch or elsewhere to change the language or our present Constitution insofar as the issuance of bonds since the Toyota decision came down from the Kentucky Supreme Court.

This Subcommittee, in fact, discussed the Toyota decision and the possible effect it may have on future projects and the bonding capacity of the Commonwealth. It was the Subcommittee's feeling 1) that we were not equipped to make any recommendation for changes in the present Constitution within the time limitations of this Commission, and 2) that it was the consensus of the Subcommittee that it may be dangerous to open up the bonding capacity of the state for private benefactors. It was the Subcommittee's feeling that the ability to issue bonds for private industry could lead to dire political and economic consequences. The limiting provisions of the present Constitution seemed to be aimed at the railroads in 1890 but in today's market, it could be abused by a multitude of industries. Therefore, the Subcommittee did not recommend any change in authority or in the debt capacity of the Commonwealth as found in the present Constitution.

Other sections of the Constitution under the Subcommittee's jurisdiction that do not appear in our recommendations did not appear to warrant legislative attention after extensive meetings, testimony and the Subcommittee's considered deliberations.

The Subcommittee does not recommend any "clustering" of amendments for the sections in our charge. A possible exception could be those sections for which repeal was called on the basis of being obsolete. If such unneeded sections as the "poll tax" section, for example, could be grouped in an omnibus, "housecleaning" amendment, two sections in our jurisdiction could be included: 157a and 180.

Respectfully submitted,

Gross Clay Lindsay

The Board shall be composed of six members of the legislative branch: Speaker of the House, President Pro Tem of the Senate, House and Senate Chairs of the respective Appropriations and Revenue Committees, and two members of the minority party as appointed by House and Senate minority leaders; six members of the executive branch as designated by and to include the governor; and, the Chief Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court or his designee. Chairmanship of the Board shall alternate between the President Pro Tem and the Speaker, starting with the President Pro Tem upon initial convening of the Board. The Board shall convene when projected or actual tax receipts accruing to the General Fund are up to 3.75% less than revenue estimates for the fund. The Board will meet to approve recommendations by each branch head for meeting reductions necessitated by the shortfall. The Board may also adopt its own plan for altering agency allotments to meet the shortfall. The Board’s powers shall include reducing allotments, transferring available agency funds to the General Fund and allotting funds from an emergency reserve fund created and funded by appropriation for that purpose by the General Assembly. The Board’s powers shall terminate when the shortfall in any fiscal year reaches or surpasses 7.5%.

Dear Speaker Blandford, President Pro Tem Rose, and Members, Legislative Research Commission:

The Subcommittee on Bill of Rights and Elections was charged to review various sections of the Constitution and to assign priority rankings to suggested changes. These sections relate to the Bill of Rights, elections, officers, lotteries, duelling, treason, and constitutional revision.

The Subcommittee held four meetings between February 27 and June 17, 1987. Subcommittee members recognized the importance of the opinions of interested individuals and associations. The following were invited to recommend changes in, or additions to, the Bill of Rights:

1. Former Chief Justice Palmore
2. Chief Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court
3. Chief Judge of the Kentucky Court of Appeals
4. President, Circuit Judges Association
5. President, Association of District Judges
6. Kentucky Attorney General
7. President, Kentucky Defense Counsel
8. President, Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys
9. Criminal Defense Attorneys' Association
10. Kentucky Public Advocate
11. President, County Attorneys' Association
12. President, Commonwealth's Attorneys Association
13. Department of Political Science, University of Kentucky
14. Department of Political Science, University of Louisville
15. A professor at Chase College of Law
16. Three professors at University of Kentucky College of Law
17. Lexington Herald Leader
18. Editor, Louisville Courier-Journal

Bill of Rights

The Subcommittee devoted substantial time to analysis and consideration of the Bill of Rights, the first twenty-six sections of the Constitution. Areas of concentration included issues of individual privacy, prosecution by information, the exclusionary rule, detention of material witnesses and electronic surveillance. In addition to examination of current constitutional provisions, applicable case law was considered, and an exhaustive survey was made of provisions of constitutions of other states.

The recommended changes are considered to be in keeping with the spirit of the current provisions and to reflect concern with contemporary social problems and technological developments, as well as clarification of such matters as references to gender.

The only recommended provision on which the voting approval was close was in reference to a limitation on the imposition of the death penalty.

Elections

The number of elections conducted in the state was discussed at length, and it is recommended that elections in odd-numbered years be eliminated. Since Kentucky holds both a primary and general election each year, annual election expenses are approximately $4.5 million. The frequency of elections was believed to contribute to a voter turnout in Kentucky lower than that found in many other states.

The hope is that reducing the number of elections could cut costs while increasing citizen participation in the electoral process.

Officers

It was the consensus that the section placing a maximum limit of $12,000 upon the compensation of public officers was long outmoded, not a constitutional matter, and should be repealed. Removal was considered desirable, since the limitations were long ago rendered ineffectual by court rulings which permit annual salary adjustments based upon changes in the consumer price index. Such limitation should be addressed by statute.
Section 234 now requires that public officers reside within their respective jurisdictions. The Subcommittee recommends that the General Assembly should control the residency requirements of appointed or employed officers, as distinguished from elected officials. This change would give the General Assembly more control over the large number of unelected employees who hold increasing authority.

Section 145 should be amended to permit the General Assembly to establish voting residency requirements, since the current provisions of the section have been held no longer effective because they are in conflict with the U. S. Constitution. Statutory provisions concerning residency do conform to the federal court decision but are thus in conflict with state constitutional standards.

Lotteries

The Subcommittee concluded that the issue of lottery should be addressed by the General Assembly. It recommends repeal of the current section prohibiting the establishment of a state lottery. The legislature should have the option either to prohibit or to establish a lottery and to designate the use of net proceeds.

Duelling

Current constitutional provisions concerning duelling reflect the era in which the Constitution was adopted. The Subcommittee recommends removal of such references, including the one which is presently included in the oath of office. It is suggested that the document incorporate the simple and dignified oath included in our 1799 Charter.

Priority

The Subcommittee recommends that the first priority be given to adding Bill of Rights sections relative to privacy, prosecution by information, and equality. Second priority should be assigned to the addition of the exclusionary rule and a death penalty provision. Other recommendations are considered important but of less urgency.

Very truly yours,

George Street Boone

Railroad Commission; election, term and qualifications of Commissioners; Commissioners’ districts; powers and duties; removal; vacancies.

A commission is hereby established, to be known as “The Railroad Commission,” which shall be composed of three Commissioners. During the session of the General Assembly which convenes in December, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and before the first day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-two, the Governor shall appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, said three Commissioners, one from each Superior Court District as now established, and said appointees shall take their office at the expiration of the terms of the present incumbents. The Commissioners so appointed shall continue in office during the term of the present Governor, and until their successors are elected and qualified. At the regular election in eighteen hundred and ninety-five and every four years thereafter the Commissioners shall be elected, one in each Superior Court District, by the qualified voters thereof, at the same time and for the same term as the Governor. No person shall be eligible to said office unless he be, at the time of his election, at least thirty years of age, a citizen of Kentucky two years, and a resident of the district from which he is chosen one year, next preceding his election. Any vacancy in this office shall be filled as provided in section 152 of this Constitution. The General Assembly may from time to time change said districts so as to equalize the population thereof; and may, if deemed expedient, require that the Commissioners be all elected by the qualified voters of the State at large. And if so required, one Commissioner shall be from each District. No person in the service of any railroad or common carrier company or corporation, or of any firm or association conducting business as a common carrier, or in anywise pecuniarily interested in such company, corporation, firm or association, or in the railroad business, or as a common carrier, shall hold such office. The powers and duties of the Railroad Commissioners shall be regulated by law; and, until otherwise provided by law, the Commission so created shall have the same powers and jurisdiction, perform the same duties, be subject to the same regulations, and receive the same compensation, as now conferred, prescribed and allowed by law to the existing Railroad Commissioners. The General Assembly may, for cause, address any of said Commissioners out of office by similar proceedings as in the case of Judges of the Court of Appeals; and the General Assembly shall enact laws to prevent the nonfeasance and misfeasance in office of said Commissioners, and to impose proper penalties therefor.

House Speaker Donald J. Blandford
Senate President Pro Tem John A. Rose
Members, Legislative Research Commission
State Capitol
Frankfort, KY 40601

Dear Speaker Blandford, President Pro Tem Rose, and Members,
Legislative Research Commission:

The Subcommittee on Local Government of the Commission on Constitutional Review was asked to review 28 sections of the Kentucky Constitution which affect the structure and function of Kentucky's local governments.

The Subcommittee completed its work after four meetings which were held between March 11 and June 3, 1987. At these meetings the Subcommittee felt that it was very important to solicit the advice and input of as many local government officials, groups, associations, related state agencies and similar legislative committees as possible.

Therefore, the following is a list of such organizations and groups which had representatives that appeared before the Subcommittee:

(1) City of Louisville
(2) Kentucky County Judge/Executive Association
(3) Kentucky Department of Local Government
(4) Kentucky Council of Area Development Districts
(5) Kentucky State-Local Finance Office
(6) Kentucky Supreme Court
(7) Kentucky Association of Counties
(8) Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government
(9) Kentucky Municipal League
(10) Jefferson County Intergovernmental Affairs Office
(11) Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources
(12) Kentucky Municipal Law Center
(13) Kentucky Transportation Center
Also, the Subcommittee held a joint meeting with the Subcommittees on Constitutional Revision of the Interim Joint Committees on Cities and Counties and Special Districts.

Of the twenty-eight sections of the Constitution which were reviewed by the Subcommittee, eleven sections are recommended for amendment, ten for deletion and seven are recommended to remain unchanged.

The group specifically recommends that Sections 64, 99, 100, 103, 106, 156, 160, 161, 165, 168 and 227 be amended. These sections primarily deal with the basic organizational structure of counties and cities. The Subcommittee in its final report very strongly urged that Kentucky’s Constitution be amended to include basic definitions of what constitutes city and county governments. They feel it is important that minimum organizational standards be established for local governments (Sections 99, 156 & 160). But equally important is the ability of local governments to merge services and functions or even provide for alternative forms of local government.

In addition, the Subcommittee proposes that constitutional references to the county surveyor, constables, tax assessors and justices of the peace be repealed (Section 99), thus eliminating these constitutional offices from the county payrolls where some still exist. They also recommend that the current municipal classification system be deleted and replaced at the discretion of the General Assembly (Section 156). The Subcommittee throughout their report also strongly supports giving the General Assembly constitutional authority to prescribe the “details” for the operation of local governments such as minimum and maximum tax and bonded indebtedness rates, etc. (Sections 157 & 158 which were not assigned to this Subcommittee).

The Subcommittee, as mentioned before, also recommends the deletion of Sections 61, 101, 102, 104, 105, 140, 142, 144, 166 and 167 from the Constitution. While Sections 61, 166 and 167 deals with municipal government, Sections 101-144 deal with individual county offices and the fiscal court. The deletion of many of these sections is based upon the incorporation of their provisions into other amended sections of the Constitution.

The sections of the Constitution for which the Subcommittee recommends no changes (Sections 63, 65, 107, 108, 162, 163 and 164) primarily outline the basic structure and function of county government and the franchising authority of cities. The Subcommittee again strongly feels the need for the Constitution to outline only the very basic functions of local governments.
In addition to their previously noted recommendations, the Subcommittee wishes to convey the following additional remarks to the General Assembly for their consideration:

1. Any revision of the constitutional sections relating to local governments could be done in 1 or 2 comprehensive proposals.

2. Home Rule authority for cities and counties should be recognized by the Constitution.

3. The ability to create alternative forms of government through the charter process should be constitutionally recognized.

4. The ability of cities and counties to merge or enact interlocal agreements should be encouraged and the process “streamlined” as much as possible.

5. Some limited form of sovereign immunity for cities and all local government officials should be granted in the Constitution.

6. The ability of local governments to raise revenues by any method not prohibited by statute should be recognized. Therefore, those sections of the Constitution which limit the revenue raising capabilities of local governments should be deleted.

Respectfully submitted,

Judge Mike Miller, Chairman
Subcommittee on Local Government
Repeal Section 61, which currently reads as follows:

Provision to be made for local option on sale of liquor; time of elections.

The General Assembly shall, by general law, provide a means whereby the sense of the people of any county, city, town, district or precinct may be taken, as to whether or not spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be sold, bartered or loaned therein, or the sale thereof regulated. But nothing herein shall be construed to interfere with or to repeal any law in force relating to the sale or gift of such liquors. All elections on this question may be held on a day other than the regular election days.

There shall be established in each county now existing, or which may be hereafter created, in this State, a Court, to be styled the County Court, to consist of a Judge, who shall be a conservator of the peace, and shall receive such compensation for his services as may be prescribed by law. He shall be commissioned by the Governor, and shall vacate his office by removal from the county in which he may have been elected.

Section 142  Justices’ districts; one Justice for each district; jurisdiction and powers of Justices; commissions; removal.

Each county now existing, or which may hereafter be created, in this State, shall be laid off into districts in such manner as the General Assembly may direct; but no county shall have less than three nor more than eight districts, in each of which districts one Justice of the Peace shall be elected as provided in section 99. The General Assembly shall make provisions for regulating the number of said districts from time to time within the limits herein prescribed, and for fixing the boundaries thereof. The jurisdiction of Justices of the Peace shall be co-extensive with the county, and shall be equal and uniform throughout the State. Justices of the Peace shall be conservators of the peace. They shall be commissioned by the Governor, and shall vacate their offices by removal from the districts, respectively, in which they may have been elected.

Section 144  Fiscal Court for each county; to consist of Justices of the Peace or Commissioners, and County Judge; quorum.

Counties shall have a Fiscal Court, which may consist of the Judge of the County Court and the Justices of the Peace, in which Court the Judge of the County Court shall preside, if present; or a county may have three commissioners, to be elected from the county at large, who, together with the Judge of the County Court, shall constitute the Fiscal Court. A majority of the members of said Court shall constitute a Court for the transaction of business. But where, for county governmental purposes, a city is by law separated from the remainder of the county, such Commissioners may be elected from the part of the county outside of such city.

Dear Speaker Blandford, President Pro Tem Rose, and Members,
Legislative Research Commission:

The Subcommittee on Private Corporations of the Commission on Constitutional Review was charged with the task of reviewing and making prioritized recommendations concerning Sections 190 through 218 of the Constitution of Kentucky. These constitutional sections pertain to regulation of corporations, railroads, common carriers generally, and public utilities.

The work of the Subcommittee on Private Corporations was conducted during four meetings held between March 13 and June 3, 1987. The Subcommittee felt it important that its meetings be well publicized and that interested parties, associations, and groups be invited to freely participate in Subcommittee activity. Consequently, the following organizations and institutions received invitations to offer input:

(a) Kentucky Bar Association
(b) Louisville Bar Association
(c) Fayette County Bar Association
(d) Chase College of Law
(e) University of Louisville School of Law
(f) University of Kentucky College of Law
(g) Kentucky Chamber of Commerce
(h) Louisville Chamber of Commerce
(i) Lexington Chamber of Commerce
(j) Kentucky Railroad Commission
(k) Kentucky Transportation Cabinet

A number of participants were of particular help to the Subcommittee in the formulation of recommendations, and their efforts merit recognition. Special thanks are extended to Professor Robert L. Seaver of the Salmon P. Chase College of Law. Professor Seaver was responsible for preparing a detailed analysis of provisions within the constitutions of other states relating to corporations. Also offering continued and valuable assistance was Mr. Keith P. Hanley, an attorney with the firm of Brown, Todd & Heyburn and chairman of the Model Business Corporation Act Revision Committee. Mr. Hanley educated Subcommittee members concerning problems encountered in the reconciliation of constitutional corporate provisions and statutory regulation of corporations, both existing and proposed.

Two participants provided the Subcommittee with valuable information regarding federal preemption of state regulation of the railroad industry. The efforts of Mr. Stephen Reeder, General Counsel for the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, and Mr. Lyle Key, Senior General Attorney for CSX Transportation, Inc., are appreciated.

The Kentucky Railroad Commission declined to participate in any activity of the Subcommittee on Private Corporations.

Corporations

Of those twenty-nine sections of the Kentucky Constitution assigned for review by the Subcommittee, thirteen deal specifically with the regulation of corporations (§§ 190-195, 198, 200, 202, 203, 205, 207, and 208). Our Constitution, the product of the constitutional convention of 1890-91, is typical of state constitutions drafted toward the turn of the century in its detailed regulation of what was then a newly powerful arm of business. Records of the constitutional debates evidence extreme caution as the mood of the delegates. Great care was taken to protect the citizens of the state from unscrupulous behavior by corporations, especially out-of-state enterprises. The legislative branch was suspect, as well, and most of the delegates felt that only constitutional provisions could supply the needed reform in the area of corporate growth and power. This distrust of the legislature pervades the entire Constitution and is reflected again and again in sections which deal with areas, such as the regulation of business activity, which are typically statutorily regulated.

As the corporate form of doing business has over the years emerged predominant, extensive and complex state regulation of the corporate existence has become necessary and is indeed the norm. The Model Business Corporations Act (MBCA), initially proposed by the American Bar Foundation, is a uniform law which makes up the basis of corporate statutes in a majority of states. Use of the MBCA as a guide for state legislation is deemed beneficial in that it lends a degree of national uniformity to the regulation of business activity that is increasingly interstate in character. This uniformity flows to judicial interpretation of statutes as well as the wording of the law itself. Kentucky statutory corporate regulation, contained in KRS Chapter 271A and enacted in 1972, is based upon the MBCA and amendments thereto.

It is the finding of the Subcommittee on Private Corporations that corporate sections of the Kentucky Constitution are truly statutory in nature. Further, the majority of subjects treated by these sections are concurrently treated by statute within KRS Chapter 271A. The Subcommittee, in fact, identified a number of potential conflicts between particular and relevant existing statutes or provisions of the MBCA. The foremost of these are as follows:

(a) Constitution Section 207 requires cumulative voting for directors in all instances. It has been asserted that this provision might be read as prohibiting classification of directors allowable under KRS 271A.180, and the filling of vacancies in the office of director by the remaining directors allowable under KRS 271A.190.

(b) Constitutional Section 192 provides for escheat of corporate real property held longer than five years where such holdings are not necessary for carrying on the legitimate business of the corporation, as expressly authorized by its charter. KRS 271A.270, however, envisions and allows a general corporate purpose to be stated as including the transaction of "any or all lawful business." Such a general purpose might include the holding of real property for speculation. Although the escheat provision is rarely invoked, its existence in such a situation is worrisome.
Speaker Blandford,
President Pro Tem Rose,
Members, Legislative Research Commission
September 1, 1987

(c) Constitutional Section 193 requires that corporate stocks or bonds only be issued for money paid, labor done, or property received. This requirement is more restrictive than the provision relative to consideration for shares found in the MBCA. Section 6.21 of the MBCA also allows stock issuance in return for promissory notes and future services. As a result, the relevant Kentucky statute, KRS 271A.095, tracks our state constitutional language, deviating from suggested uniform language in a more restrictive manner.

The Subcommittee additionally finds that there is a danger to the future economic climate of the Commonwealth found in the practice of including corporate regulatory material that is statutory in character within the state constitution. Such a practice greatly reduces Kentucky’s ability to quickly adapt to changing corporate and business practices and methods of business regulation. The lack of flexibility in this area could cause Kentucky to lose desirability as a prospective corporate domicile.

Common Carriers and Public Utilities

Fourteen constitutional sections assigned for review by the Subcommittee concern common carriers and public utilities (§§ 196, 197, 199, 201, and 209-218). Ten of those sections relate to railroads with particularity (§§ 209-218). It is the finding of the Subcommittee that the material contained in these sections is distinctly statutory in character. The Subcommittee also has determined that much of the regulatory content has been preempted by federal law.

The need for and ability of individual states to regulate the railroad industry has been virtually eliminated through federal preemption. In 1978 the Interstate Commerce Act (Pub. L. 95-473, October 17, 1978) finally vested all authority over interstate rail rates and tariffs in the Interstate Commerce Commission. In 1980 the Staggers Rail Act (Pub. L. 96-448, October 14, 1980) gave preemptive authority over intrastate rail rates to the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Staggers Act did, however, provide that a state may continue to exercise jurisdiction over intrastate rail transportation only: (1) if it does so exclusively in accordance with the standards and procedures of the Interstate Commerce Commission; (2) if the state regulatory commission has obtained certification from the ICC that the state is implementing standards and procedures which are in accord with the ICC’s own practice [(49 USC Sec. 11501(b)(3)(A)]; and (3) if any rail carrier aggrieved by state action may petition the ICC to review the decision of the state authority on the grounds that the standards and procedures employed by the state were not in accordance with the provisions of the act [(49 USC Sec. 11501(c)].
Thus, the Staggers Rail Act preempts all state jurisdiction over general rate increases and prohibits the state from exercising any jurisdiction over intrastate rail transportation unless it does so exclusively in accordance with the provision of the Act, as determined by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Should Kentucky, through a state agency, seek to exercise any significant jurisdiction in the area of rail rates, it could do so only as the state funded arm of the Interstate Commerce Commission [(See Kentucky Utilities Company v. Interstate Commerce Commission, 721 F.2d 537 (6th Cir. 1983)].

Similarly, the Federal Railroad Safety Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-458, October 16, 1970) resulted in regulatory and enforcement authority for rail safety being placed under the purview of the United States Secretary of Transportation (45 U.S.C. Section 431 and Section 432). Like the Staggers Act, the Safety Act contains provisions which allow a state regulatory authority to continue to regulate rail safety if it so desires as long as the state regulation is not incompatible with federal rail safety guidelines and the state regulatory agency has been certified by the United States Secretary of Transportation (45 U.S.C. Section 434 and Section 435). However, the United States Secretary of Transportation retains final enforcement authority [(45 U.S.C. Section 435(a)]. If a state does not elect to provide state enforcement of the federal program, then the federal government will enforce the federal safety standards.

This description of federal preemption of state regulation of the railroad industry points to the folly of including provisions that are purely statutory in character within a state constitutional document. Such provisions obviously resist convenient amendment and are prone to obsolescence. Such is the case with Kentucky constitutional provisions governing railroads.

In making a recommendation concerning sections pertaining to railroads, the Subcommittee paid particular attention to Section 209, which establishes the Kentucky Railroad Commission and defines its duties. Testimony before the Subcommittee revealed that because of preemptive federal regulation of rail rates, tariffs and safety, Railroad Commission activity today has been relegated almost exclusively to railroad crossing related matters. Upon hearing of a crossing which may be in need of some repair, the Commission places the matter upon its docket. The railroad named responsible for the crossing by the Commission is then required to present evidence concerning the crossing at the Commission’s hearing. The Commission has attempted to issue orders requiring railroads to take action concerning particular crossings. It seems, however, that responsibility for crossing maintenance is vested in the Transportation Cabinet, which participates in a federally funded program to improve crossing safety through the Highway Safety Act of 1973. Prioritization schedules for crossing improvement have been created by the cabinet as per federal regulation. It has been alleged that any enforcement of Railroad Commission orders regarding the improvement of particular crossings would run afoul of the federally mandated prioritization schedule and the requirement that the program be administered by the Transportation Cabinet, thereby jeopardizing federal funding.

The Subcommittee finds that the purpose and duties of the Railroad Commission are in disarray. It may be that the Commission or one similar in makeup could perform a useful service to Kentucky involving issues of highway or rail safety not federally preempted. The determination of such a body's composition and function should, however, be made by the legislature. Repeal of constitutional Section 209 would grant the legislature the flexibility to make that determination based upon the real and changing needs of Kentucky. It should be noted that such a repeal of Section 209 would not automatically abolish the Railroad Commission, but would cause it to be available for complete legislative scrutiny.

Sections 199 and 201 of the Constitution concern public utilities and pertain specifically to cooperation and competition among and between utility companies. Issues of federal preemption in regard to the interstate character and operation of such companies are again applicable. A major source of such preemption is the Federal Communications Act of 1934 as amended. The Subcommittee finds these sections also to be overtly statutory in character. Such regulatory material within the Constitution seems particularly inappropriate in an age of seemingly endless advances in the fields of communications and energy technologies and product delivery systems. Flexibility in regulatory possibilities may be best achieved through unbridled legislative jurisdiction over the operation of public utilities.

Miscellaneous Sections

Two constitutional sections pertaining to miscellaneous subjects were assigned for Subcommittee review. Section 204 concerns the liability of bank officers knowingly receiving deposits for an insolvent bank. The Subcommittee finds this Section to be statutory in character and deserving of repeal. Section 206 provides that public warehouses are subject to legislative control. The Subcommittee finds that the general legislative power vested in the General Assembly by constitutional Section 29 is inclusive of the authority prescribed by Section 206.

Four proposed amendments follow this introduction. The Subcommittee would allocate first priority to the amendment pertaining to corporations. Second priority would be assigned to the proposal regarding common carriers and public utilities. Lesser or third priority would fall to amendment suggestions concerning bank officers and public warehouses. The Subcommittee would suggest, however, that all four proposals could be grouped for ballot purposes as a single amendment under the subject of "commerce."

Respectfully submitted,

State Senator David L. Williams

AMENDMENT PROPOSAL NUMBER 75

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Create a new section of the Constitution of Kentucky to read as follows:

"The General Assembly shall provide for appropriate regulation of common carriers and public utilities as and to the extent required by the public interest."

Repeal Sections 196, 197, 199, 201, and 209-218, which currently read as follows:

Section 196 Regulation of common carriers; no relief from common law liability.

Transportation of freight and passengers by railroad, steamboat or other common carrier, shall be so regulated, by general law, as to prevent unjust discrimination. No common carrier shall be permitted to contract for relief from its common law liability.

Section 197 Free passes or reduced rates to officers forbidden.

No railroad, steamboat or other common carrier, under heavy penalty to be fixed by the General Assembly, shall give a free pass or passes, or shall, at reduced rates not common to the public, sell tickets for transportation to any State, district, city, town or county officer, or member of the General Assembly, or Judge; and any State, district, city, town or county officer, or member of the General Assembly, or Judge, who shall accept or use a free pass or passes, or shall receive or use tickets or transportation at reduced rates not common to the public, shall forfeit his office. It shall be the duty of the General Assembly to enact laws to enforce the provisions of this section.

Section 199 Telegraph and telephone companies; right to construct lines; exchange of messages.

Any association or corporation, or the lessees or managers thereof, organized for the purpose, or any individual, shall have the right to construct and maintain lines of telegraph within this State, and to connect the same with other lines, and said companies shall receive and transmit each other's messages without unreasonable delay or discrimination, and all such companies are hereby declared to be common carriers and subject to legislative control. Telephone companies operating exchanges in different towns or cities, or other public stations, shall receive and transmit each other's messages without unreasonable delay or discrimination. The General Assembly shall, by general laws of uniform operation, provide reasonable regulations to give full effect to this section. Nothing herein shall be construed to interfere with the rights of cities or towns to arrange and control their streets and alleys, and to designate the places at which, and the manner in which, the wires of such companies shall be erected or laid within the limits of such city or town.

Section 201  Public utility company not to consolidate with, acquire or operate competing or parallel system; common carriers not to share earnings with one not carrying; telephone companies excepted under certain conditions.

No railroad, telegraph, telephone, bridge or common carrier company shall consolidate its capital stock, franchises or property, or pool its earnings, in whole or in part, with any other railroad, telegraph, telephone, bridge or common carrier company owning a parallel or competing line or structure, or acquire by purchase, lease or otherwise, any parallel or competing line or structure, or operate the same; nor shall any railroad company or other common carrier combine or make any contract with the owners of any vessel that leaves or makes port in this State, or with any common carrier, by which combination or contract the earnings of one doing the carrying are to be shared by the other not doing the carrying: Provided, however, That telephone companies may acquire by purchase or lease, or otherwise, and operate, parallel or competing exchanges, lines and structures, and the property of other telephone companies, if the Railroad Commission or such other State commission as may have jurisdiction over such matters shall first consent thereto, and if, further, each municipality wherein such property or any part thereof is located shall also first consent thereto as to the property within its limits, but under any such acquisition and operation toll line connections with the property so acquired shall be continued and maintained under an agreement between the purchasing company and the toll line companies then furnishing such service, and in the event they are unable to agree as to the terms of such an agreement the Railroad Commission or such other State commission as may have jurisdiction over such matters, shall fix the term of such agreement.

Section 209  Railroad Commission; election, term and qualifications of Commissioners; Commissioners' districts; powers and duties; removal; vacancies.
A commission is hereby established, to be known as "The Railroad Commission," which shall be composed of three Commissioners. During the session of the General Assembly which convenes in December, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, and before the first day of June, eighteen hundred and ninety-two, the Governor shall appoint, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, said three Commissioners, one from each Superior Court District as now established, and said appointees shall take their office at the expiration of the terms of the present incumbents. The Commissioners so appointed shall continue in office during the term of the present Governor, and until their successors are elected and qualified. At the regular election in eighteen hundred and ninety-five and every four years thereafter the Commissioners shall be elected, one in each Superior Court District, by the qualified voters thereof, at the same time and for the same term as the Governor. No person shall be eligible to said office unless he be, at the time of his election, at least thirty years of age, a citizen of Kentucky two years, and a resident of the district from which he is chosen one year, next preceding his election. Any vacancy in this office shall be filled as provided in section 152 of this Constitution. The General Assembly may from time to time change said districts so as to equalize the population thereof; and may, if deemed expedient, require that the Commissioners be all elected by the qualified voters of the State at large. And if so required, one Commissioner shall be from each District. No person in the service of any railroad or common carrier company or corporation, or of any firm or association conducting business as a common carrier, or in anywise pecuniarily interested in such company, corporation, firm or association, or in the railroad business, or as a common carrier, shall hold such office. The powers and duties of the Railroad Commissioners shall be regulated by law; and, until otherwise provided by law, the Commission so created shall have the same powers and jurisdiction, perform the same duties, be subject to the same regulations, and receive the same compensation, as now conferred, prescribed and allowed by law to the existing Railroad Commissioners. The General Assembly may, for cause, address any of said Commissioners out of office by similar proceedings as in the case of Judges of the Court of Appeals; and the General Assembly shall enact laws to prevent the nonfeasance and misfeasance in office of said Commissioners, and to impose proper penalties therefor.

Section 210  Common carrier corporation not to be interested in other business.

No corporation engaged in the business of common carrier shall, directly or indirectly, own, manage, operate, or engage in any other business than that of a common carrier, or hold, own, lease or acquire, directly or indirectly, mines, factories or timber, except such as shall be necessary to carry on its business, and the General Assembly shall enact laws to give effect to the provisions of this section.
Section 211 Foreign railroad corporation may not condemn or acquire real estate.

No railroad corporation organized under the laws of any other State, or of the United States, and doing business, or proposing to do business, in this State, shall be entitled to the benefit of the right of eminent domain or have power to acquire the right of way or real estate for depot or other uses, until it shall have become a body corporate pursuant to and in accordance with the laws of this Commonwealth.

Section 212 Rolling stock, earnings and personal property of railroads subject to execution or attachment.

The rolling stock and other movable property belonging to any railroad corporation or company in this State shall be considered personal property, and shall be liable to execution and sale in the same manner as the personal property of individuals. The earnings of any railroad company or corporation, and choses in action, money and personal property of all kinds belonging to it, in the hands, or under the control, of any officer, agent or employee of such corporation or company, shall be subject to process of attachment to the same extent and in the same manner, as like property of individuals when in the hands or under the control of other persons. Any such earnings, choses in action, money or other personal property may be subjected to the payment of any judgment against such corporation or company, in the same manner and to the same extent as such property of individuals in the hands of third persons.

Section 213 Railroad companies to handle traffic with connecting carriers without discrimination.

All railroad, transfer, belt lines and railway bridge companies organized under the laws of Kentucky, or operating, maintaining or controlling any railroad, transfer, belt lines or bridges, or doing a railway business in this State, shall receive, transfer, deliver and switch empty or loaded cars, and shall move, transport, receive, load or unload all the freight in car loads or less quantities, coming to or going from any railroad, transfer, belt line, bridge or siding thereon, with equal promptness and dispatch, and without any discrimination as to charges, preference, drawback or rebate in favor of any person, corporation, consignee or consignor, in any matter as to payment, transportation, handling or delivery; and shall so receive, deliver, transfer and transport all freight as above set forth, from and to any point where there is a physical connection between the tracks of said companies. But this section shall not be construed as requiring any such common carrier to allow the use of its tracks for the trains of another engaged in like business.
Section 214 Railroad not to make exclusive or preferential contract.

No railway, transfer, belt line or railway bridge company shall make any exclusive or preferential contract or arrangement with any individual, association or corporation, for the receipt, transfer, delivery, transportation, handling, care or custody of any freight, or for the conduct of any business as a common carrier.

Section 215 Freight to be handled without discrimination.

All railway, transfer, belt lines or railway bridge companies shall receive, load, unload, transport, haul, deliver and handle freight of the same class for all persons, associations or corporations from and to the same points and upon the same conditions, in the same manner and for the same charges, and for the same method of payment.

Section 216 Railroad must allow tracks of others to cross or unite.

All railway, transfer, belt lines and railway bridge companies shall allow the tracks of each other to unite, intersect and cross at any point where such union, intersection and crossing is reasonable or feasible.

Section 217 Penalties for violating 213, 214, 215 or 216; Attorney-General to enforce.

Any person, association or corporation, willfully or knowingly violating any of the provisions of sections 213, 214, 215, or 216, shall, upon conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction, for the first offense be fined two thousand dollars; for the second offense, five thousand dollars; and for the third offense, shall thereupon, ipso facto, forfeit its franchises, privileges or charter rights; and if such delinquent be a foreign corporation, it shall, ipso facto, forfeit its right to do business in this State; and the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth shall forthwith, upon notice of the violation of any of said provisions, institute proceedings to enforce the provisions of the aforesaid sections.

Section 218 Long and short hauls.

It shall be unlawful for any person or corporation, owning or operating a railroad in this State, or any common carrier, to charge or receive any greater compensation in the aggregate for the transportation of passengers, or of property of like kind, under substantially similar circumstances and conditions, for a shorter than for a longer distance over the same line, in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer distance; but this shall not be construed as authorizing any common carrier, or person or corporation, owning or operating a railroad in this State, to receive as great compensation for a shorter as for a longer distance: Provided, That upon application to the Railroad Commission, such common carrier, or person or corporation owning or operating a railroad in this State, may in special cases, after investigation by the Commission, be authorized to charge less for longer than for shorter distances for the transportation of passengers, or property; and the Commission may, from time to time, prescribe the extent to which such common carrrier, or person or corporation, owning or operating a railroad in this State, may be relieved from the operation of this section.

PRIORITIZED PROPOSALS FOR CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT

On July 13, 1987, each member of the Commission on Constitutional Review was mailed a survey ballot. The survey ballot contained copies of each of the seventy-seven proposals for constitutional amendment offered by the six subcommittees of the Commission. Members of the full Commission were given the opportunity to mark on the ballot support, opposition, or lack of an opinion concerning individual proposals. Those proposed amendments receiving over fifty percent support as indicated from responses received appear in this final Commission report.

Respondents to the survey ballot were also asked to assign a priority ranking from one to five inclusive to each proposed amendment. A priority ranking of "1" denoted a proposal considered crucial in affecting the future of Kentucky, including its ability to compete with other states. A priority ranking of "5" denoted a proposal which, although desirable, is not urgent nor does it affect the future of Kentucky. Priority ratings were then averaged among responses received in order to generate a priority index for each proposal.

Amendment proposals are listed below by number in order of priority as evidenced by priority indexes. Also listed are the subcommittees which generated particular amendments as well as the page numbers of this report upon which the wording of amendments appears.

All persons shall be excluded from office who have been, or shall hereafter be, convicted of a felony, or of such high misdemeanor as may be prescribed by law, but such disability may be removed by pardon of the Governor. The privilege of free suffrage shall be supported by laws regulating elections, and prohibiting, under adequate penalties, all undue influence thereon, from power, bribery, tumult or other improper practices.

Section 152. Vacancies; when filled by appointment, when by election; who to fill. Except as otherwise provided in this Constitution, vacancies in all elective offices shall be filled by election or appointment, as follows: If the unexpired term will end at the next succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district or State officers are to be elected, the office shall be filled by appointment for the remainder of the term. If the unexpired term will not end at the next succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district or State officers are to be elected, and if three months intervene before said succeeding annual election at which either city, town, county, district or State officers are to be elected, the office shall be filled by appointment until said election, and then said vacancy shall be filled by election for the remainder of the term.

If three months do not intervene between the happening of said vacancy and the next succeeding election at which city, town, county, district or State offices are to be elected, the office shall be filled by appointment until the second succeeding annual election at which city, town, county, district or State officers are to be elected; and then, if any part of the term remains unexpired, the office shall be filled by election until the regular time for the election of officers to fill said offices. Vacancies in all offices for the State at large, or for districts larger than a county, shall be filled by appointment of the Governor; all other appointments shall be made as may be prescribed by law. No person shall ever be appointed a member of the General Assembly, but vacancies therein may be filled at a special election, in such manner as may be provided by law.

No county, city, town, taxing district, or other municipality, shall be authorized or permitted to become indebted, in any manner or for any purpose, to an amount exceeding, in any year, the income and revenue provided for such year, without the assent of two-thirds of the voters thereof, voting at an election to be held for that purpose; and any indebtedness contracted in violation of this section shall be void. Nor shall such contract be enforceable by the person with whom made; nor shall such municipality ever be authorized to assume the same.

Nothing herein shall prevent the issue of renewal bonds, or bonds to fund the floating indebtedness of any city, town, county, taxing district or other municipality.

Law for borrowing money must specify purpose. Const. 178.

Section 159. Tax to pay indebtedness in not more than forty years must be levied. When any city of the first or second class is divided into wards or districts, members of legislative boards shall be elected at large by the qualified voters of said city, but so selected that an equal proportion thereof shall reside in each of the said wards or districts; but when in any city of the first, second or third class, there are two legislative boards, the less numerous shall be selected from and elected by the voters at large of said city; but other officers of towns or cities shall be elected by the qualified voters therein, or appointed by the local authorities thereof, as the General Assembly may, by a general law, provide; but when elected by the voters of a town or city, their terms of office shall be four years, and until their successors shall be qualified. No Mayor or Chief Executive of any city of the first or second class, after the expiration of three successive terms of office to which he has been elected under this Constitution shall be eligible for the succeeding term. The General Assembly may provide that any change in land use from agricultural or horticultural to another use shall require the levy of an additional tax not to exceed the additional amount that would have been owing had the land been assessed under Section 172 of this Constitution for the current year and the two next preceding years.

The General Assembly may provide for reasonable differences in the rate of ad valorem taxation within different areas of the same taxing districts on that class of property which includes the surface of the land. Section 256. Amendments to Constitution; how proposed and voted upon. Amendments to this Constitution may be proposed in either House of the General Assembly at a regular session, and if such amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by three-fifths of all the members elected to each House, such proposed amendment or amendments, with the yeas and nays of the members of each House taken thereon, shall be entered in full in their respective journals. Then such proposed amendment or amendments shall be submitted to the voters of the State for their ratification or rejection at the next general election for members of the House of Representatives, the vote to be taken thereon in such manner as the General Assembly may provide, and to be certified by the officers of election to the Secretary of State in such manner as shall be provided by law, which vote shall be compared and certified by the same board authorized by law to compare the polls and give certificates of election to officers for the State at large. If it shall appear that a majority of the votes cast for and against an amendment at said election was for the amendment, then the same shall become a part of the Constitution of this Commonwealth, and shall be so proclaimed by the Governor, and published in such manner as the General Assembly may direct. Said amendments shall not be submitted at an election which occurs less than ninety days from the final passage of such proposed amendment or amendments. Not more than four amendments shall be voted upon at any one time. If two or more amendments shall be submitted at the same time, they shall be submitted in such manner that the electors shall vote for or against each of such amendments separately, but an amendment may relate to a single subject or to related subject matters and may amend or modify as many articles and as many sections of the Constitution as may be necessary and appropriate in order to accomplish the objectives of the amendment. The approval of the Governor shall not be necessary to any bill, order, resolution or vote of the General Assembly, proposing an amendment or amendments to this Constitution.

Section 257. Publication of proposed amendments. Before an amendment shall be submitted to a vote, the Secretary of State shall cause such proposed amendment, and the time that the same is to be voted upon, to be published at least ninety days before the vote is to be taken thereon in such manner as may be prescribed by law.

Section 258. Constitutional Convention; how proposed, voted upon and called. When a majority of all the members elected to each House of the General Assembly shall concur, by a yea and nay vote, to enter upon their respective journals, in enacting a law to take the sense of the people of the State as to the necessity and expediency of calling a Convention for the purpose of revising or amending this Constitution, and such amendments as may have been made to the same, such law shall be spread upon their respective journals. If the next General Assembly shall, in like manner, concur in such law, it shall provide for having a poll opened in each voting precinct in this state by the officers provided by law for holding general elections at the next ensuing regular election to be held for State officers or members of the House of Representatives, which does not occur within ninety days from the final passage of such law, at which time and places the votes of the qualified voters shall be taken for and against calling the Convention, in the same manner provided by law for taking votes in other State elections. The vote for and against said proposition shall be certified to the Secretary of State by the same officers and in the same manner as in State elections. If it shall appear that a majority voting on the proposition was for calling a Convention, and if the total number of votes cast for the calling of the Convention is equal to one-fourth of the number of qualified voters who voted at the last preceding general election in this State, the Secretary of State shall certify the same to the General Assembly at its next regular session, at which session a law shall be enacted calling a Convention to reappoint, revise or amend this Constitution, and such amendments as may have been made thereto.

Section 259. Number and qualifications of delegates. The Convention shall consist of as many delegates as there are members of the House of Representatives; and the delegates shall have the same qualifications and be elected from the same districts as said Representatives.

Section 260. Election of delegates; meeting. Delegates to such Convention shall be elected at the next general State election after the passage of the act calling the Convention, which does not occur within less than ninety days; and they shall meet within ninety days after their election at the Capital of the State, and continue in session until their work is completed.

Section 261. Certification of election and compensation of delegates. The General Assembly, in the act calling the convention, shall provide for comparing the polls and giving certificates of election to the delegates elected, and provide for their compensation.

Section 262. Determination of election and qualifications of delegates; contest. The Convention, when assembled, shall be the judge of the election and qualification of its members, and shall determine contested elections. But the General Assembly shall, in the act calling the Convention, provide for taking testimony in such cases, and for issuing a writ of election in case of a tie.

Section 263. Notice of election on question of calling Convention. Before a vote is taken upon the question of calling a Convention, the Secretary of State shall cause notice of the election to be published in such manner as may be provided by the act directing said vote to be taken.

The provisions of all laws which are inconsistent with this Constitution shall cease upon its adoption, except that all laws which are inconsistent with such provisions as require legislation to enforce them shall remain in force until such legislation is had, but not longer than six years after the adoption of this Constitution, unless sooner amended or repealed by the General Assembly.

Second: That all recognizances, obligations and all other instruments entered into or executed before the adoption of this Constitution, to the State, or to any city, town, county or subdivision thereof, and all fines, taxes, penalties and forfeitures due or owing to this State, or to any city, town, county or subdivision thereof, and all writs, prosecutions, actions and causes of action, except as otherwise herein provided, shall continue and remain unaffected by the adoption of this Constitution. And all indictments which shall have been found, or may hereafter be found, for any crime or offense committed before this Constitution takes effect, may be prosecuted as if no change had taken place, except as otherwise provided in this Constitution.
Third: All Circuit, Chancery, Criminal, Law and Equity, Law, and Common Pleas Courts, as now constituted and organized by law, shall continue with their respective jurisdictions until the Judges of the Circuit Courts provided for in this Constitution shall have been elected and qualified, and shall then cease and determine; and the causes, actions and proceedings then pending in said first named courts, which are discontinued by this Constitution, shall be transferred to, and tried by, the Circuit Courts in the counties, respectively, in which said causes, actions and proceedings are pending.

Fourth: The Treasurer, Attorney-General, Auditor of Public Accounts, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Register of the Land Office, elected in eighteen hundred and ninety-one, shall hold their offices until the first Monday in January, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, and until the election and qualification of their successors. The Governor and Lieutenant Governor elected in eighteen hundred and ninety-one shall hold their offices until the sixth Tuesday after the first Monday in November, eighteen hundred and ninety-five, and until their successors are elected and qualified. The Governor and Treasurer elected in eighteen hundred and ninety-one shall be ineligible to the succeeding term. The Governor elected in eighteen hundred and ninety-one may appoint a Secretary of State and a Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics, as now provided, who shall hold their offices until their successors are elected and qualified, unless sooner removed by the Governor. The official bond of the present Treasurer shall be renewed at the expiration of two years from the time of his qualification.

Fifth: All officers who may be in office at the adoption of this Constitution, or who may be elected before the election of their successors, as provided in this Constitution, shall hold their respective offices until their successors are elected or appointed and qualified as provided in this Constitution.

Sixth: The Quarterly Courts created by this Constitution shall be the successors of the present statutory Quarterly Courts in the several counties of this State; and all suits, proceedings, prosecutions, records and judgments now pending or being in said last named courts shall, after the adoption of this Constitution, be transferred to the Quarterly Courts created by this Constitution, and shall proceed as though the same had been therein instituted.
