Provide funds to establish a program to Enhance CAR-T Cell Function by deleting PTPN1 and PTPN2 Inhibitory Checkpoint Phosphatases for treatment of pediatric brain cancer. Activation and suppression of immune T cells are regulated by signaling proteins called kinases and phosphatases. It has been shown that the PTPN1 and PTPN2 phosphatases work together to suppress overactivation of T cells. This project hypothesizes that deleting both copies of PTP1N and PTPN2 in CAR-T cells by gene editing techniques would enhance the tumor-killing function of CAR-T cells. The results of these studies should lead rapidly to early-phase clinical trials of such strategies in children with Diffuse Intrinsic Pontine Glioma a type of pediatric brain cancer.

The Infant Complex Care team is comprised of a neonatologist, pediatrician, advanced practice provider and a nurse navigator. The program presently shares a team of ancillary staff with the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) Graduate Clinic. This shared team is comprised of a social worker (CSW), dietician, as well as a physical, occupational, and speech/feeding therapist. The NICU Graduate Clinic provides follow-up to all NICU graduates who may not be medically complex but are still at risk for growth and developmental problems. This includes premature infants less than 32 weeks gestation, critically ill late preterm and full-term infants, infants with genetic syndromes and infants with Neonatal Abstinence Syndrome (NAS). Even NICU graduates who are not medically complex can have complex psychosocial problems that require assistance and support from the clinical social worker. Thus, the shared social worker has less time to devote to the Infant Complex Care program for medically complex children and their families. The Infant Complex Care program and the children that they serve would benefit from a full-time social worker to address the emotional, financial, and social challenges associated with childhood medical complexity.
