Part III: Fiscal Explanation, Bill Provisions, and Estimated Cost

The fiscal impact of SB 30 to local governments is expected to be minimal. SB 30 does not address how the funds will be dispersed to a specific county. Therefore aggregate amounts are used for the purpose of this impact statement.

SB 30 proposes that only motor vehicle licensing, registration, or traffic fines from circuit court be paid into the CJRF. Information available from the Administrative Offices of the Court (AOC) shows circuit and district court fines of $18,208,234 as being remitted from the circuit court clerks to the State Treasury for fiscal year 2015. However, SB 30 refers ONLY to fines imposed by circuit court as being the funding source for the CJRF. AOC data for 2015 reflects 1,519 circuit traffic charges as compared to 366,542 district traffic charges. This equates to approximately .4% of the total charges as being circuit court charges.

SB 30 proposes to essentially double the current fines, then earmark half the fines to the CJRF. Based on that, circuit court clerks would remit an estimated $39.4 million in district and circuit court fines to the State Treasury of which for purposes of this estimate we assume .04% or $15,760 will be from circuit court. Half of that amount or $7,880 would be paid into the CJRF and made available for disbursement to the county offices as detailed below:

Co. Treasurer	Co. Clerk	Co. Atty	Co. Sheriff	EMS
70.00%	7.50%	7.50%	7.50%	7.50%
$ 5,166	$ 554	$ 554	$ 554	$ 554

The Consensus Forecast data shows the Circuit Court Clerk remittance to decrease annually at approximately 8% through 2018. AOC says this is partially due to the increasing use of pre-trial diversion programs in lieu of court and fines. The money collected for these programs goes to the County Attorney.
