2 WHEREAS, Lisa Raterman is a proud graduate of Northern Kentucky University 3 who earned her Master of Education degree from Xavier University; and

4 WHEREAS, Lisa Raterman began her career in education with F&W Publications
5 in 1995. Following her stint there, she began a long and decorated career as an educator, 6 public speaker, and educational advocate; and 7 WHEREAS, Lisa Raterman served as an elected member and vice president of the 8 Site-Based Decision Making Council; as district representative at Dwight D. Eisenhower 9 Reading Development Seminars in Washington, D.C.; as a participant in several 10 conferences and professional development seminars; and as an esteemed World Studies, 11 Oral Communications, and Public Speaking teacher; and

12 WHEREAS, this honorable body rightfully commends those educators who go 13 above and beyond their calling to touch the lives of students, colleagues, and the families 14 of Kentucky who count on their expertise and base of knowledge; and

15 WHEREAS, in this spirit, this body congratulates Lisa Raterman upon her well-16 deserved retirement, duly thanks her for her more than two decades of service to Boone 17 County's students and to the field of education throughout this Commonwealth, and 18 grants her very best wishes as she begins this new chapter of her life;
