

1       A RESOLUTION recognizing and celebrating Hindu holidays and the resilience of 2 the Hindu people.

3       WHEREAS, the Hindu people have a rich cultural and spiritual heritage that 4 emphasizes the importance of close family bonds, expression of gratitude, introspection 5 and renewal of faith, and harmony, unity, and togetherness; and

6       WHEREAS, Hindus celebrate Dashain, also called Vijaya Dashaimi, by honoring 7 the goddess Durga who prevailed over Mahishura, which is considered as a triumph of 8 good over evil; and

9       WHEREAS, on the 10th day of Dashain, Hindu elders place a tika, a mixture of 10 rice, yogurt, and vermillion, on younger Hindus to bless them with hopes for abundance 11 in the future; and

12       WHEREAS, during Dashain, Hindus visit temples and perform rituals to seek 13 blessings, express gratitude, and reflect on their spiritual journey; and

14       WHEREAS, during the festival of Laxmi Pooja, also known as Dipawali or Diwali, 15 Hindus celebrate Lakshmi, the goddess of wealth and prosperity; and

16       WHEREAS, believing that the goddess will only reside in clean and tidy spaces, 17 Hindus thoroughly clean their homes and decorate them with butter lamps and electric 18 lights in hopes of receiving her blessings; and

19       WHEREAS, Hindus will also buy gold and silver, precious gemstones, new utensils
20 of copper, and brass and bronze for good luck, using the items to worship the goddess 21 Lakshmi at night; and

22       WHEREAS, during the festival of Bhaitika, Hindus celebrate and observe the 23 strong bond between siblings, especially between brothers and sisters; and

24       WHEREAS, the celebration of Bhaitika originated with Yama, the God of Death, 25 visiting his sister, Yamuna. During his visit, Yamuna welcomed him with a tika and 26 special prayers. Being so moved by this gesture, Yama blessed all brothers receiving a 27 tika with long life and prosperity; and

1 WHEREAS, continuing the tradition, sisters will mark their brothers' foreheads
2 with a unique tika symbolizing love and prayers for protection and prosperity. As a sign 3 of gratitude for their blessing, the brothers will give back to their sisters presents or cash; 4 and

5 WHEREAS, Holi is celebrated as a victory of life over the cold dark winter, 6 welcoming the arrival of spring; and

7 WHEREAS, during Holi, Hindus celebrate Prahlada's victory over Holika, as a 8 victory of good over evil, reinforcing the belief in righteousness prevailing; and

9 WHEREAS, to celebrate Holi, Hindus play with bright color powders, spray 10 colored water on each other and throw colored-water balloons. It is believed that the 11 combination of different colors takes all of the sorrow away and makes life itself more 12 colorful; and

13 WHEREAS, in their exercise of promoting individual and collective well-being, 14 truthfulness, compassion, and generosity, the Hindu people through their traditions and
