Part II: Bill Provisions and the Estimated Fiscal Impact Relating to Local Government

SB 16 GA amends KRS 511.100 to expand the definition of "key infrastructure assets" to include commercial food manufacturing or processing facilities, animal feeding operations, and concentrated animal feeding operations. It also expands the definition of the offense of trespass upon key infrastructure assets to include operating an unmanned aircraft system, video recording device, audio recording device, or photography equipment over commercial food manufacturing or processing facilities, animal feeding operations, and concentrated animal feeding operations, as well as recording or distributing any part, procedure, or action of commercial food manufacturing or processing facilities, animal feeding operations. SB 16 GA adds an exemption for electric, water, or natural gas utility companies conducting legitimate business activities.

The fiscal impact of SB 16 GA on local governments is indeterminable, though likely slightly negative. As it changes the definition of a previously existing misdemeanor, there is no conviction or incarceration history for the new definition of the offense with which to base a projection of potential costs to local jails or law enforcement. However, the daily costs for those incarcerated as a result of the offense are outlined below.

A person convicted of a Class B misdemeanor may be incarcerated for up to 90 days. A person convicted of a Class A misdemeanor may be incarcerated for up to twelve months. Misdemeanants are housed in one of Kentucky's 74 full-service jails or three life safety jails. While the expense of housing inmates varies by jail, this estimated impact will be based on an average cost to incarcerate of $44.97 per day. While the majority of misdemeanor defendants are granted bail, those who do not will also cost local jails an average cost to incarcerate of $44.97 per day.
